THE GHOST FESTIVAL

Amongst Chinese traditional festivals in China, there are a lot of them characterized by social customs, beliefs and mystery.

The Buddhist festival of the dead, also known as Ghost Festival, is held on 14th of July (Chinese calendar). It is a festival for human and spirit to communicate with each other.

During this period of time, the King of Hades will order to open the gate of Hades. All of the spirits, those tortured at the Hades, will be discharged temporarily.

Starting from 1st of July (Chinese Calendar) of every year, there will be "Festivals of Lanterns" held mostly by people of Cha Shou all over the playground in Hong Kong. During the festival, Opera for the Dead will be performed and some sorts of recreation will also be distributed. The expenditure of the festival will be about 30 millions dollars.

"Opera for the Dead", also known as "Heaven Opera", is mainly come from Chaing Shou (Chaing Shou, if Cha Shou, it wants to return thanks to Gods for giving blessing upon those virtuous people). Therefore, the stage of the Opera is always being the mirror of the Temple so as to let Gods to have a look on it.

As the opening of the gate of Hades, it was said that the members would meet their descendants during this period of time.

Hoping to be reincarnated, those spirits which were died of unjust treatment would take vengeance upon their enemies during this period of time.
